General Passenger Agent. SPANISH BEGGARS TO GO.

Ancient Organization Threatened by an Anti-Vagrant Measure. From the New York Times.

Every tourist who contemplates a visit to Spain will rejoice that the government has reported favorably upon a measure for the repression of vagrancy and begging, which are practiced on a large scale all over the peninsula and are particularly indulged in by young children. The bill has been prepared by the social reform committee of Madrid, although it was actually drafted by Senator Santa Maria de Parabes of the Madrid University.

In no other Latin country is the guild of beggars so well organized. The Spanish beggar is not usually a thief, or, rather, overt thieving is discouraged by his pro fession. Spanish sociologists trace the origin of the present-day beggar to the time of barefooted pilgrimages and hair-shirt of parefooted pligrimages and hair-shirt discipline. It is affirmed that the whole class of quite orderly men and women who crouch at the church doors and plously bless the donors of copper coins are in many cases the lineal descendants of pligrims who used to do pareform. many cases the lineal descendants of pirgrims who used to do penance for those who were charitably disposed toward them. There is no doubt that even today the Madrid beggar, who is called in Castilian "pordiosero," is a very pious person; indeed, the appellation implies as much, originates the first phress that fines or terms of from one to fifteen days' imprisonment. Heavier fines, or from fifteen to thirty days' imprisonment, will be imposed on parents and guardians who ill-treat children in order to make them beg, or who sell them to others for the purpose of begging. All persons convicted will forfeit the right to have the custody of the children for two years or more, at the discretion of the courts and authorities, who will place the minors in proper municipal and provincial establishments which will support and educate them until it is consupport and educate them until it is con-sidered possible to restore them to their editor in person.

It began as a mere collection of crude illustrations, but as his public became educated the editor introduced fresh words, then sentences, and gradually articles on the affairs of the day. Now it consists of three columns of matter, and appears once in kind. They are two elder ducks for three months or a seal for a year.

"Ork-we-on-we" is the title of the latest newspaper venture in Canada. Its editor, Charles C. Cook, is an educated Iroquois Indian. The paper is published in the Mohawk language, and is intended for circulation among twenty thousand civilized Iroquois who live as British subjects in the dominion. "Ork-we-on-we" appears fortnightly under the supervision of an official of the Indian department.

St. Petersburg has a monthly, the "Pen-nightly under the supervision of an official of the Indian department.

St. Petersburg has a monthly, the "Pentobiblion Magazine," which publishes critcisms on articles all the world over. Each criticism is printed in the language of the magazine reviewed, and it sometimes happens that there are as many as fifteen languages represented in a single issue. In one recent number the following languages were to be seen: English, French, German, Italian, Spanish, Portuguese, Dutch, Swedish, Danish, Hungarian, Rumanian, Russian, Servian, Bohemian and Polish.

The Salvation Army journal "The War Cry" appears weekly in thirteen different languages. "The China Times" is another polyglot periodical. It is published in Peking, and its articles are each printed in seven different languages: French, English, German, Italian, Russian, Chinese and Japanese. Of journals with curious objects there is probably not one in the world more peculiar than "Le Journal de Mal de Mer," or Journal of Sea Sickness. Its editor is M. de Madeuf, a noted Parisian physician, who is president of one of the medical societies. His aim is to form ian physician, who is president of one of the medical societies. His aim is to form the medical societies. His aim is to form a league of all persons who suffer from this distressing malady and also of steamship owners, hotel keepers and others who might be directly interested in the suppression of seasickness. There is, or was a few years ago, in London, a small journal known as "The Anti-Top Hat," which depended for its existence, not upon subscribers, but upon the will of an elderly gentleman who had left his nephew $400 a year on condition that he edit and publish a monthly in which the conventional topper should be held up to derision. "The Anti-Top Hat" made its appearance with extreme regularity, but its circuiation was
